Motion capture data is tracked and synchronised in real-time by a combination of new and existing camera systems: A goal line camera has been positioned in each corner of the Arena Pitch. The vertical goal line cameras are focused on the goal posts and are used to track the ball's path. The horizontal goal line cameras are focused on the goal line and are used to track the height of the ball. The pitch cameras follow the pitch line, tracking the path of the ball and player. Mixed-reality cameras that track the player's physical location are placed around the pitch to track players' heading and movement. The Mixed-reality cameras that track the player's physical location are placed around the pitch to track players' heading and movement. The cameras are focused on players and are used to track them in-game. Visual depth is enhanced using the existing camera systems to enable players to be seen clearly in the mixed-reality and goal line camera zones as they move on and off the pitch. Players must be seen clearly by the cameras as the pitch moves up and down. Players are tracked by players and goal line cameras to measure movement. As players move around the pitch, their movement and heading are tracked using the new and existing camera systems. These two-dimensional (2D) tracking systems are combined to produce 3D information of player actions. Then, computer vision algorithms transform the camera data into game information: Ball movement and velocity Ball accuracy is determined using an algorithm that compares the physical characteristics of the ball to those of known real-life balls. Manage your very own squad of footballers and take them through seasons of the most exhilarating football action. Get the players, pieces and perks that match your play style. Compete in Live Leagues – Matches are being played on FIFA 22's Online Seasons this week, continuing our 'Kick off Season 10' today. All players are eligible to play in all games, and these matches will contain a mix of traditional and Online Seasons matches to provide more exciting soccer. Play in a club team, create your own club team and take on the world as you compete to reach the FIFA 22 Championship! This week we have two games that I was excited to try out. First there is FIFA 22, which I have really enjoyed in the past. However I would like to have a better idea of what will come with the update. I've heard it has a better performance because of significant changes to AI, but I wish I could test it in person to see if this is in fact true or not. I played FIFA 21 (plus Team of the Year, and Ultimate Team on that game, so I'm far from an expert), and I did notice some performance improvements, but now the holiday season has hit in my household, and my boys and I are living off turkey and potatoes for Thanksgiving dinner. I was also looking for another game to try for myself, as the one I was trying to watch FIFA 22 became unavailable, and I downloaded Ultimate Team. This week on the Official Show (episode 14) I'll be previewing some FIFA 22 changes and a preview of Ultimate Team. Plus I'll be looking at what the EA sports holiday (Black Friday) sale has in store for us. After reviewing the games and EA Sports new release I'll give you my game recommendations for the week, as well as my game of the year, a price I'd be willing to pay for it, and my game of the season. To see what I was playing during the show, scroll to the top of this blog post. The new FIFA game is the latest installment in the popular soccer video game franchise. It was announced in February as the
