indian_munnda: I am not sure, try hitting alt-f2, and running unity and see what happens. indian_munnda: cause that is a long shot. dabaR: no it works. Oh, really? yup indian_munnda: try alt-f2, and running compiz --replace And report back dabaR: compiz--replace command not found dabaR: i think you are just assuming that my problem lies in compiz and i need to run compiz --replace command to fix this problem. indian_munnda: come on. indian_munnda: you said that it does not work with unity. indian_munnda, try press super key to see if you have the unity icon and launch unity on the launcher dabaR: i just tried it now. it works fine. indian_munnda: so it works in unity? RxDx: no. i just see that i have win7 installed what? dabaR: yeah indian_munnda, are you using ubuntu? indian_munnda: that is all? RxDx: yes indian_munnda: that was all? indian_munnda, have you already installed unity? dabaR: now i have rebooted RxDx: i have no idea how to check dabaR: yup it was one command only indian_munnda: what was one command, run the compiz --replace command in a terminal, and pastebin the output,
