Schumer spoke after a Labor Day briefing at the Treasury Department on the economic effects of the government shutdown. ADVERTISEMENT The closed-door meeting comes a day after the Labor Department and Bureau of Economic Analysis announced that the second quarter of 2019 posted a.6 percent rise in gross domestic product, bringing the overall growth rate of the economy to 3 percent in the second quarter, the highest quarterly growth rate in five years. Still, Schumer said that a greater portion of Americans remain in a struggling economy, and asked Mnuchin and Powell to present more government aid to workers and those who rely on food assistance. "This is not a normal time, but there are many people who still live in fear," Schumer said. "We must not turn our backs on the American people. We must take the measures necessary to
