This has to be a type of pawn game. White has no real way to take out this black king. Is this game a draw, or a win for white? White wins, as the black king can't go anywhere. i gave both these guys a 0/10 rating until someone proves me wrong... i agree with you, yes the black king can't move. but I wouldnt say

With the KEYMACRO utility, you can easily adjust the standard Windows key behavior to suit your needs. This application allows you to customize the key combination Windows or Super+K, using a series of different options. The functionality is very similar to what you can achieve using the Windows System Settings, but it allows you to do so without actually logging in. Furthermore, you can tweak all the keystroke combinations that are created when you press the Windows key, including creating key macros (similar to Linux's gnome-keyboard-properties). This particular feature can be quite useful, especially for power users who often need to perform a series of different tasks. However, it is mostly designed to help people who have experienced keyboard malfunctioning problems. Due to the fact that it is essentially a software installer, it requires a bit of configuration in order to function correctly. In particular, you will need to know the location of the software's exe file, as well as the location of the installation folder. The rest of the settings should be self-explanatory. Note that some of the functionalities that are built-in by default may require additional configuration. KEYMACRO Downloads: I had issues with Keymacro 1.2.2, since it would not allow certain key combinations. After checking the forum and looking at an updated version of the Keymacro.exe in the download link, I was able to get the program to work. Mikky 03-18-2011, 02:24 AM I just updated to 1.3.4 and everytime i try to test the generated commands it says "Illegal state!" - any help on this would be appreciated. Jon 03-18-2011, 03:23 PM I had issues with Keymacro 1.2.2, since it would not allow certain key combinations. After checking the forum and looking at an updated version of the Keymacro.exe in the download link, I was able to get the program to work. I had similar issue, after i changed the 1.3.4 to 1.3.3. the key mapping still not working for me. If you have same issue, try the last version.// (C) Copyright John Maddock 2007. // Use, modification and distribution are subject to the // Boost Software License, Version 1.0. Elgindy USB Serial

Description of the application: The program is a simple utility designed to save time and effort during the process of finding USB drive serial numbers. The program does not require installation and can be launched by double-clicking the.exe file, which is the only file included. This means that if the USB devices have already been connected, the information will be extracted instantly. However, in case the USB drives have not been connected yet, the application will perform a periodic scan to retrieve the serial number data. When a drive is plugged in, the program will display the serial number in a pop-up window, along with information about the device (name, type, size, serial number, and other available details). You can also right-click a particular serial number entry to copy it to the clipboard. Overall, Elgindy USB Serial is a handy tool that is simple to use and pretty intuitive, which is why it is one of the best USB serial number extraction tools available today.Q: Align a label in the center of a JPanel I have a JPanel with an image and two JLabels. In my simple application I want the two JLabels to be in the center of the JPanel. How can I do this? Thanks. Here is my code: JPanel p = new JPanel(); p.setBounds(10,10,800,500); ImageIcon ii = new ImageIcon(getClass().getResource("/product.png")); p.setIconImage(ii.getImage()); Image img = new ImageIcon(getClass().getResource("/picture.png")).getImage(); p.setImage(img); JLabel title = new JLabel("APPLICATION NAME"); title.setBounds(0,0,100,25); p.add(title); JLabel description = new JLabel("APPLICATION DESCRIPTION"); description.setBounds(0,50,100,25); p.add(description); A: Label's setBounds(..) method does not work with the placement. Use preferredSize instead. JLabel title = new JLabel("APPLICATION NAME"); title.setIcon(new ImageIcon(getClass().getResource("/product.png")).getImage()); title.setBounds(0,0,img.get
