The global market for electronic mobility solutions will reach $1.3 trillion by 2022, up from $1 trillion in 2017, and is projected to grow to $2.5 trillion in 2027. This large expansion is due to a large increase in both the number of electric vehicles and overall vehicle population. For instance, China, the world's largest vehicle market, has 15 million EV registrations per year (31% of the global total) and will account for 42% of global EV sales by 2027. The increase in the number of electric vehicles will lead to an increase in accidents involving these vehicles. While still in its early stages, airbag technology is already being tested in an effort to reduce accidents and injuries in these scenarios. In this report, we outline the key forces driving the demand for airbags for electric vehicles and analyze the projected growth of the global market for airbags for electric vehicles. We identify the key regional markets for airbags for electric vehicles and the leading manufacturers in each market. Key Findings Airbags for Electric Vehicles By 2022, it is estimated that there will be 1.3 million new electric vehicles on the road. This represents a 24% growth rate from 2017 to 2022. The fastest-growing regions in 2022 will be China, India, and Southeast Asia, which combined will account for 40% of the global demand for airbags for electric vehicles.
