Fluent Screen Recorder, just like the name suggests, is an improved version of Simple Screen Recorder, sporting a much more stylish look and some other small upgrades. The app is great if you're a Windows 10 user and would like to record whatever it is that you're doing on-screen. Whether you want to keep in mind how certain actions were achieved, or are creating tutorials for your online channel, the app will serve you just the same. Simple app, honest interface The best part about this particular program is how well it fits with the rest of the Windows 10 UI. In fact, nobody would accuse you if you'd consider it part of the initial Win10 OS app package. It's that convincing when it comes to looks. It's also easy to use and navigate. The record button is easy to spot, seeing as it covers half of the app's interface. The transparent/solid look does also bring a sense of modernity to the table. Not much to complain about here, although the app won't necessarily take your breath away. Adjusting parameters When it comes to adjusting the app itself, there really isn't much to do. Choose the frame rate you want your materials to have, the resolution, which does depend on your screen's size, and decide on the bit rate, if you want to use source size as video resolution, and whether you'll have a video preview or not. Once everything is as needed, all that remains is for you to hit the record button and commence explaining to the world or yourself what you're attempting to achieve on-screen. Fluent Screen Recorder is an interesting tool for those who have just recently decided to save or share on-screen activity. It's simple to use, it covers the essentials, and it doesn't take much space or cost any money, as a matter of fact. For starters, there really can't be anything better. Even more advanced users might find this app refreshing on account of said honesty. Fluent Screen Recorder Pros: - Simple - Honest - Practical - Cheap - Great-looking - Easy-to-use Fluent Screen Recorder Cons: - Nothing to improve on really Screen recording made easy This is a must-have app for Windows 10. If you want to use your PC without missing any details, the best way to record what you see on-screen is by using this app. It is a good idea to start recording as soon as you
