A: No, that expression is not valid CSS. If you had $1px + 3px + 3px$ { color: red; } then that would be fine. There's no way to add 3px to 1px, so it's invalid. Q: Debugger sometimes stops I use a 0.5 update release of Xcode to debug my iOS Application. The App starts normally at the first time, but after an app crash, The Debugger gets stuck and even the iPhone becomes unresponsive. If I force the app to stop again, the Debugger restarts and can access all variables and works normally after that. Any ideas? A: Are you sure you have set your breakpoints correctly? I tend to start debugging and then set a breakpoint, and then ask Xcode to stop the app. If I start debugging after a crash, I find that Xcode will say it stopped at the "source not found" line in the app, and the breakpoint isn't caught. However, if I leave the application running for a little while and then tap around a little, it then says it stopped at the breakpoint, but now it takes too long to catch the next line. If you've got this happening when you don't expect it, it's worth a try to verify the breakpoint is set correctly. Particularly in the first couple of hours of debugging.
