a matlab license that allows you to access the software from a windows desktop and install it on up to 4 cpus. this license also allows you to use matlab on a pc that is connected to an scsi device or to a network. you may use the software for educational, research, and design purposes, and to perform and develop calculations. note to non-u.s. residents: to obtain a campus-wide license for matlab, you must be a u. resident or have a valid u. visa. please contact the matlab activation helpdesk at 1-800-matlab-r2009 (1-800-697-7213). there are two reasons why you might want to create a license key for your organization. the first reason is that you may want to distribute matlab to other users on your network. this can be done using the create new license feature of the matlab/distributed computing center (mldc.mathworks.com). for this demonstration i am using the matlab r2020a release on windows. the steps outlined here are similar for other releases of matlab and will be the same across linux and mac. to get started, you need to be on the home tab from within matlab. find the help drop down on the upper right-hand corner. from within the help drop down, find the licensing menu. from within licensing find and click activate software. this is where you will find everything that is associated with the license such as the software name, serial number, license file, serial number, license key, serial number, product key and activation method. you can change the activation method by clicking the edit activation method button. the default method is to change the serial number. the serial number can be found under the serial number column on the right side of the license. the license file column is where you can locate the license file. 5ec8ef588b
